DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-12, 19-25, and 51-55 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The phrase "endothelial cells that have been genetically altered to express or over express..." is being treated as similar to a "product-by-process" type claim. Because the cells already express at least one cellular adherence factor it is the same as the endothelial cells claimed.

Furthermore, it does not matter if Pratt or Huber "so much as suggest that transforming the cells to express DANCE" if Nakamura supplies motivation to combine. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., transforming the cells to express DANCE would have a beneficial effect on the adherence of the ECs) are not recited in the rejected claim(s).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10, 12, and 52-55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pratt et al. Pratt et al. discloses a prosthetic vascular ePTFE graft seeded with genetically transformed endothelial cells from a vein of the host or other sources

(col. 3, lines 29-36).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11, 19-25 and 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pratt et al. in view of Nakamura et al. Pratt et al. discloses a prosthetic vascular ePTFE graft seeded with genetically transformed endothelial cells however fails to disclose a method of genetically transforming the endothelial cells to express DANCE. Nakamura et al. teaches genetically transforming the endothelial cells to express DANCE (p 7, pp 3), which promotes the adhesion of endothelial cells (Abstract). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine the teaching of genetically transforming the endothelial cells to express DANCE, as taught by Nakamura et al., to a prosthetic vascular ePTFE graft seeded with genetically transformed endothelial cells as per Pratt et al., in order to promote the adhesion of endothelial cells.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
